

Juicy Sex Stories Media Kit

Be seen by your target market

Juicy Sex Stories is a community where all erotic writers can share their stories. It's a place where authors gain confidence by posting short stories so our educated erotic readers can rate and comment on their work.

More experienced erotica authors also use Juicy as place to introduce their work to a large online audience.

It's also a vibrant community where members drop in and hang with friends online. They chat using instant messaging, send private messages and post on their friends' profile wall.

We post interesting interviews on the site. We take the time to find the right people to interview, and bring insightful case studies to life. Examples include Molly's Daily Kiss and contest winner Lunabelle

Juicy is now just over 12 months old and the growth (mainly achieved by stable organic Google search) has been incredible. We reach erotica fans in over 200 countries - the majority from developed countries.

Over six hundred people have now become members. They are every engaged and share stories and secrets - many share photos of their own sexual exploits. Members create their own profile their own way.

We are now viewed by over 12000 unique visitors daily and steadily growing.

This is an 18+ website only.

Our aim is to provide a platform for our erotic writers and readers to come together. And to offer a high volume of qualified leads for all of our community to share in.

Juicy Sex Stories Book Shop

To protect our Google ranking and the benefits this brings to all our members, we do not publish content which is already online on other sites. This means that many stories that our members submit are unfortunately not published. As appreciation to our writers who have already published works and choose to share their new non-published work with us, we offer our free bookshelf.

There is always free space available for our consistent writers to place their published works on our bookshelves. This is a free service our way of saying thanks for sharing new work with our community.

For information on how you can have your books on our shelves contact team@juicysexstories.com

While we are happy to show your work there is no guarantee of click through rates or sales.

We look forward to working with you.
